LOCATION

The property is located on Fawcett Street within Sunderland City Centre, situated 12 miles south east of Newcastle upon Tyne and 12 miles north east of Durham. Fawcett Street is highly accessible by public transport, which acts as the City Centre's main arterial road for bus connections. The property is located within immediate proximity of Sunderland Railway Station which provides direct access to national destinations including York and London Kings' Cross. Sunderland City Centre is also served by two Metro Stations, Park Lane Interchange and Sunderland Railway Station, which facilitate access to 60 regional destinations including Newcastle City centre, Gateshead and Newcastle International Airport.

Sunderland City Centre is undergoing one of the UK's most ambitious urban regeneration projects which will see the delivery of various residential, commercial and community led schemes. Situated less than 350 yards to the north west of the property, 'Riverside Sunderland' is a 32 hectare regeneration site on the banks of the River Wear which will create a new urban quarter within the city. To date, Riverside Sunderland has seen the delivery of four Grade A offices (including the Civic Hall), a hotel, a car park, restaurants and bars, as well as improvements to the public realm. Forthcoming land uses will also include a library, two education academies and public parks, as well as hundreds of new build homes. A newly constructed pedestrian footbridge will connect the City Centre to the Sheepfolds and the Stadium of Light to the north.

Other notable regeneration schemes in the City Centre include Linden Homes' redevelopment of the former Sunderland Civic Centre site and TOWN's redevelopment of Nile Street and Villers Street, which are located immediately south and east of Fawcett Street respectively. The property forms part of 'Mackies Corner' regeneration area, which accommodates various independent cafés and retailers.

The property is strategically located between Sunderland University's St Peter's and City Campuses. Named as one of the UK's top 40 Universities in the Guardian University Guide 2025, Sunderland University has a student population of approximately 18,000 people. Incorporating the wider catchment area of Tyneside, Newcastle University and Northumbria University have an approximate student population of 60,000 people.

Sunderland University's growing list of accolades, first-class facilities, and vibrant leisure offer make Sunderland a sought-after choice for both undergraduate and post-graduate students.

DESCRIPTION

The property is located to the western side of Fawcett Street and comprises three interconnected terraces which were built in the 19th Century.

The front elevation benefits from having ornate Dutch gabled façades and decorative masonry lintels to the upper parts, making a positive contribution to the Sunnyside Conservation Area, which Fawcett Street forms part of. The property is 3.5 storey in height, is of red brick construction and has a fully glazed shop front at ground floor level, which spans all three terraces. At the rear on Station Street, the buildings are a variety of heights and design.

Internally the property comprises a ground floor retail unit with ancillary storage space and office rooms to the upper parts.
