Connectivity

Lombard House is located on great Charles Queensway, a key arterial road that runs through the centre of Birmingham.

Birmingham's central UK location means 90% of the UK population is within a four-hour drive. Furthermore, the city also boasts first class connections by rail and air.

More than £5.1bn is being invested in the West Midlands' transport infrastructure, including the expansion of rail, tram and bus rapid transport systems across the region.

The new HS2 railway will cut travel times to London to less than 50 minutes and is expected to add £20bn GVA to the local economy.

Walk

The building is ideally situated to be within a short walk of all the amenities central Birmingham has to offer. You can reach Paradise, Colemore Row and the Jewellery Quarter within a matter of minutes.

Road

Lombard house is on the Great Charles Street Queensway which merges into the A38 and follows on to join the M6 – providing access to the UK's motorway network – just three minutes away.

National Rail

New Street and Snow Hill Stations are less than 10 minutes away on foot and offer comprehensive local and national train services.

Bus

A number of major bus services are available outside the buildings entrance. This service will be further improved with the launch of the new Sprint network due to be delivered this year.

Air

Birmingham Airport boasts 150 direct destinations and is a ten minute train ride from the city centre.
